International Engineering Education Symposium
— Present and Future —

In response to Tokyo Tech's ongoing educational system reform efforts and planned implementation, which leads to a new education system in April 2016, we have invited experts, professors, young researcher and students from around the world to participate in this symposium on engineering education for the Tokyo Tech community. The program consists of a keynote lecture and three different panels. Discussions between participants and the audience is planned in order to explore and improve engineering education for an internationalizing Japanese society going forward.
